

Long-term Course Program

○Purpose and overview of the program

For those who may have difficulty in completing the necessary curriculum within the standard period of study (2 years for the master's course and 3 years for the doctoral course) due to circumstances such as maintaining their careers, this is a program in which you can plan and complete the course of your choice in a longer time frame to accommodate your specific needs.

○Eligible applicants

- (1) Those who are employed by government agencies, companies, etc. (excluding those who are granted a leave of absence from their work, etc.), those who are self-employed, and those who are engaged in full-time employment
- (2) Those who work part-time, etc. and who the president recognizes as being seriously affected, in relation to academic work, by that burden
- (3) Those who will give birth, or need to provide childcare or care for relatives, and who the president recognize as being seriously affected, in relation to academic work, by that burden
- (4) Those who correspond persons stipulated in number 3 above and who the president recognizes their circumstances require participation in the long-term course

※ MEXT Scholarship Students are not eligible for the long-term Course Program.
